

Type of Intervention: Individual

Domain: Socioemotional

Student/Adult Name (if applicable): Q.R.

Number of Students (if applicable): 1

Grade of student(s) being worked with or discussed: 2nd grader

What was the reason for the intervention?

The Assistant Principal called for the counselor to come to her office to see a student who had come to the nurse's office with stomach pain. This was the second instance this semester that the child had come to the nurse's office and complained of stomach pain with no other symptoms.

Provide a brief summary of the intervention:

The student was sitting in the restroom of the nurse's office with his head in his hands, hunched over and crying. I was able to get him to move out of the restroom and go into the front lobby, where we sat on the couch and talked. The student said this was the second time he had had this stomach pain, both instances occurring while he was in his EIP Reading class. The student was crying and saying over and over, "I want to go home." I was able to get him to move to the Cub Corner (sensory room) where he jumped on the trampoline and played with provided sensory objects. We discussed his friendships in class, his interests, etc. The student said that he was willing to go back to class for the rest of the day. When we were walking to his class, he saw his classmates in the hallway and immediately reverted back to saying, "I want to go home." We went back to the Cub Corner and spent time talking for 5 minutes before he was regulated and able to return to class for the rest of the day with no further issues.

Describe what went well:

I was able to redirect the student from his perseverance on wanting to go home and use sensory items/activities to distract him. He was able to go back to his classroom and effectively finish the rest of his day with his peers. I was also able to speak with his teacher, the nurse, and the assistant principal about the outcome of our meeting and consult on how to proceed if this occurs again.

Describe what you would like to work on after reflecting on this intervention:

I would like to work on my rapport building with the student so that he is more comfortable discussing issues/complaints with me. He was not immediately willing to open up about what was bothering him and potentially causing these somatic issues he was experiencing. Building rapport with the student will hopefully help him to feel more comfortable discussing what is on his mind with me. I would also like to collect more sensory items and fidgets that students can use in the moment, wherever we are, instead of having to rely on a sensory room that may not be available.

What is your plan for follow-up with the student(s), family member, or staff member?

I consulted with my supervisor, the assistant principal, the school nurse, and second grade teacher so that a plan could be created for follow-up. His teacher requested that we follow up with his EIP Reading teacher to get her insights on what is prompting these symptoms for him (since they have originated both times during her classroom time). The assistant principal requested that my supervisor call the student's mother to update her on the symptoms he is experiencing and the situations surrounding his visits to the nurse. I will discuss with my supervisor the possibility of meeting with him to work on coping skills.
